POOR WOMAN MAKES SACRIFICE

"For years I have doctor for indigestion and severe bloating with gas, all my money had gone for doctors and medicine which did me no good. I had lost all faith in medicine and as I have to work hard for the few dollars I earn, was afraid to risk any more money. A year ago my neighbor told me to try May's Wonderful Remedy. I have found it to be the best medicine in the world and am glad I made the sacrifice." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. A. A. Clarke and druggists everywhere.—Adv.

STATES HE HAD ONE LUCKY DAY

Tanlac Helped Well-Known Drayman After Everything Else Failed Him.

"Almost everybody in Erie, Pa., knows G. W. Gundaker, of 441 East Fifth St. George, as he is fondly called by those who have admired him for his honesty and integrity for a good many years, has been a sufferer from stomach trouble and indigestion.

"I had a terrible case of stomach trouble and indigestion," he explained, "and although I had doctored several years I could not get any relief.
"I would just blast up like a mule and get cramps after eating. Yes sir, I would feel all out of shape.
The only relief I could get was by taking a little soda, and that relief was only for an hour or so at a time."
"It was a lucky day for me when I got this Tanlac, and I certainly do thank the fellow who recommended it to me. Tanlac is the only medicine that really ever helped me, and I had tried everything. Yes sir, everything. I am now like a new man and I advise any one who has stomach trouble or indigestion to use this medicine. It surely will cure them. My phone number is Mutual 4707-X, and I would not mind answering any other questions about my relief."

Tanlac is now sold here by the Connellsville Drug Co.
Tanlac can also be secured in Dunbar at D. C. Mason's Drug Store.—

While here the band will be entertaining in the home of the members of Trinity Lutheran church. No admission will be charged, but the closing of the auditorium will be for the benefit of the institution the boys represent. The band has made a great hit in the eastern part of the state. It furnished the music for the commencement exercises of several prominent colleges. The Louisville Home was founded in 1872 in order to care for the soldiers' orphans of the Civil War, and has rendered splendid service. There are now 250 children under its care.

"You are Hannah Stag's little girl," he said.

"Yes—my name," Carolyn May answered faintly.

"And how come you here alone?"

"If you please, Uncle Joe said I'd better come ahead and get acquainted with you first."

"First? What do you mean, first?" asked Aunt Rose sternly.

"First—before you saw Prince," responded the perfectly frank little girl. Uncle Joe thought maybe you couldn't care for dogs."

"Dogs?"

"No, ma'am. And of course where Mr. Stag has to live too. He—"

"He brought your dog?"

"Yes, ma'am."

"Of course," said Aunt Rose composedly. "I expected you to come here. Do not know what Joseph Stag expected. But I did not suppose you would have a dog. Where is Joseph Stag?"

"He—his coming."

"With the dog?"

"Yes, ma'am."

Aunt Rose seemed to take some time to digest this; but she made no further comment in regard to the matter, only saying:

"Let us go into the house, Carolyn May. You must take off your hat and bathe your face and hands."

Carolyn May Cameron followed the stately figure of Aunt Rose Kennedy, at the blue-and-white kitchen of the old house, with something of the feeling of a culprit on the way to the dock.

Such a big kitchen as it was! The little girl thought it must be almost as big as their whole apartment in Harlem "put together."

The little girl took off her plain black hat, shook back her hair and patted it smooth with her hands, then plunged her hands and face into the basin of cool water. Aunt Rose had drawn for her at the sink. The dust was all washed away and a fresh glow came into her flowerlike face. Aunt Rose watched her silently.

Such a dignified, upright, unresponsive woman as she seemed standing there! And so particular, neat and immaculate was this kitchen!

Carolyn May, as she dried her face and hands, heard a familiar whistle at the door. It was Prince. She wondered if she had at all broken the ice for him with Aunt Rose.

"Oh," the little girl mused, "I wonder what she will say to a mongrel."

CHAPTER II.

Going to Bed.

Stag had fastened the door strap to the porch rail and he now came in with the bag.

"Is that all the child's baggage, Joseph Stag?" asked Aunt Rose, taking it from his hand.

"Why—why, I never thought to ask her," the man admitted. "Have you a trunk check, Carolyn?"

"No, sir."

"They sent you up here with only that bag?" Mr. Stag said with some exasperation. "Haven't you got any clothes but those you stand in?"

"Mrs. Price said—said they weren't suitable," explained the little girl. "You see, they aren't black."

"Oh!" exploded her uncle.

"You greatly lack tact, Joseph Stag," said Aunt Rose, and the hardware dealer cleared his throat loudly as he went to the sink to perform his pre-supper ablutions. Carolyn May did not understand just what the woman meant.

"Ahem!" said Uncle Joe gruffly. "Suppose I ought to've read that letter before. What's come of it, Carolyn May?"

But just then the little girl was so deeply interested in what Aunt Rose was doing that she failed to hear him. Mrs. Kennedy brought out of the pantry a tin plate, on which were scraps of meat and bread, besides a groovy marrow-bone.

"If you think the dog is hungry, Carolyn May," she said, "you would better give him this before we break our fast."

"Oh, Aunt Rose!" gasped the little girl, her sober face all a-smile. "He'll be de-light-ed."

She carried the pan out to Prince. When the door closed again, Mrs. Kennedy went to the stove and instantly, with the opening of the oven, the rich, delicious odor from it made Carolyn May's mouth fairly water.

Such flaky biscuits—two great pans full of the brown beauties! Mr. Stag sat down at the table and actually smiled.

The little girl took her indicated place at the table timidly.

"Joseph Stag," said Aunt Rose, sitting down, "ask a blessing."

"Uncle Joe's harsh voice seemed suddenly to become gentle as he reverently said grace.

Mr. Stag was in haste to eat and get back to the store. "Oh that Chester Cornaby will try to make a meal of some of the hardware, I guess," he said gloomily.

"Oh, dear me, Uncle Joe!" exclaimed Carolyn May. "If he did that, he'd be off his head!"

"What? Oh! I guess I would come indignantly," agreed her uncle.

"Aunt Rose did not even smile.

"Bless me!" Mr. Stag exclaimed suddenly. "What's that on the mantel, Aunt Rose? That yellow letter?"

"A telegram for you, Joseph Stag."

"MY little girl is subject to sudden attacks of stomach and bowel trouble and Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin always relieves her quickly so she is soon playing about as usual. I have used Syrup Pepsin for three years and would not be without it now at any price."

regaled the old lady composedly.

"Well!" muttered the hardware dealer, and Carolyn May wondered if he were not afraid to express just the emotion he felt at that instant. His face was red and he got up clumsily to secure the sealed message.

"Who brought it, and when?" he asked snally. Having read the lawyer's night letter.

"A boy. This morning," said Aunt Rose, utterly calm.

"And I never saw it this noon," growled the hardware dealer.

Mrs. Kennedy quite ignored any suggestion of impatience in Mr. Stag's voice or manner. But he seemed to lose taste for his supper after reading the telegram.

"Where is the letter that this Mr. Price wrote and sent by you, Carolyn?" he asked as he was about to depart for the store.

The little girl asked permission to leave the table and then ran to open her bag. Mr. Stag said doubtfully: "I suppose you'll have to put her somewhere—for the present. Don't see what else we can do, Aunt Rose."

"You may be sure, Joseph Stag, that her room was ready for her a week ago," Mrs. Kennedy rejoined, quite unruffled.

The surprised hardware dealer gurgled something in his throat. "What room?" he finally stammered.

"That which was her mother's, Hannah Stag's room. It is next to mine and she will come to no harm there."

"Hannah's?" exclaimed Mr. Stag. "Why, that ain't been slept in since she went away."

"It is quite fit, then," said Aunt Rose, "that it should be used for her child. Trouble nothing about things that do not concern you, Joseph Stag," she added with, perhaps, additional sternness.

Carolyn May did not hear this. She now produced the letter from her lawyer.

"There it is, Uncle Joe," she said. "I guess he tells you all about me in it."

"Hum!" said the hardware man, clearing his throat and picking up his hat. "I'll read it down at the store."

"Shall—shall I see you again to-night, Uncle Joe?" the little girl asked wistfully. "You know, my bedtime's half-past eight."

"Well, if you don't see me tonight again, you'll be well cared for, I haven't a doubt," said Uncle Joe shortly, and went out.

Connellsville Bargain Days

THURSDAY and FRIDAY, AUGUST 1 and 2

A Powerful Yearly Event

Connellsville's Merchants' Bargain Days is an annual event that grows with enthusiasm each succeeding year, and this being the eighth episode of its kind, will be superior to any ever held, owing to the fact that bargains in war times are few and far between.

With months of preparation, the progressive merchants of Connellsville have made provisions for Merchants' Bargain Days of 1918 by offering to the public bigger and better bargains at such unheard-of prices as will be found listed on this page. In these war times when all commodities are soaring in price the merchants are holding a two-day Bargain Festival of underselling, drastic reduction and price concessions that will go a great way to reduce the high cost of living in these high priced times.

Every farmer, housewife, miner, coke-worker, mill-worker, railroad man, in fact every man, woman, and child should attend this great money-saving event.

There can be found advertised on the page below Dry Goods, Clothing, Shoes, Groceries, Drugs, Furniture, Household Articles and Furnishings, Candies, Hardware, Tobacco, Meats, and all commodities that are needed and will be reduced in price for these two days.

In addition to the advertisements found listed below, other general advertisements have been prepared by nearly every merchant and will be found on other pages of this paper. We ask you to read every one of these ads and check all wanted and interesting items and come prepared for two rousing shopping days.

The 16 reasons why Connellsville's Bargain Days are a great success—Quality, Seasonableness, Economy, Quantity, Durability, Necessity, Rarity, Freshness, Values, Prices, Comparisons, Delivery, Shipment, Packing, Duration and Time.

A Personal Message to the Motorists of Connellsville and Vicinity

FROM THE OFFICIAL SERVICE STATION OF THE OLDEST SERVICE TO AUTOMOBILE OWNERS IN AMERICA

IN order to provide the highest character of personal battery service to automobile owners, the Prest-O-Lite Company, Inc., of Indianapolis, Ind., has appointed us as official Prest-O-Lite Service Station for Connellsville and vicinity.

We are proud of the reputation we have earned among the automobilists of Connellsville and the surrounding territory. The addition of the Prest-O-Lite Storage Battery to our line of Michelin Tires and auto accessories places us in an ideal position for rendering a personal and exceptional service to the most exacting motorists.

Let Us Shoulder All Your Troubles

With a corps of competent battery men we are now supplying automobilists with Prest-O-Lite Batteries that exactly fit cars of all makes, models and sizes. These are batteries you would be proud to have on your car. They are not merely "good" batteries, or "better" batteries—they are the best—Prest-O-Lite.

We carry a complete stock of these batteries, so there will be no disappointing delays when you call at 134 East Crawford Avenue. We have the only experienced battery man in town—starting and lighting troubles also diagnosed promptly. If your battery needs repairing we have a service battery for you to use—prices are very reasonable. We repair or inspect any make of battery at any time and gladly add distilled water as often as you require it.

When in Doubt Ask Us

Is your battery charging properly? Does it need recharging? Are the connections tight? Should distilled water be added? A few minutes for a test will tell us what, if anything, is needed. No matter what make of battery you are now using, we will recharge or repair it in a thoroughly efficient manner at moderate prices.

If you have been sending your work elsewhere, we ask you to give us a trial, that you may compare our work with others. We are certain the comparison will be in our favor. We know that we merit your patronage and we will be glad to earn your good will, giving cheerful and prompt service at reasonable prices.

To all Prest-O-Lite Gas Tank Users

We have also been appointed distributors of these famous gas tanks and appliances in Connellsville. For the many Prest-O-Lite dealers, users and prospective users, in this territory, we carry a large reserve supply of Prest-O-Lites, insuring prompt and satisfactory service at all times.

In addition we carry a wide range of acetylene appliances, such as blow-torches for soldering and brazing, burners for heating and lighting purposes, etc.

If you are not already using a Prest-O-Lite Gas Tank as a substitute for the troublesome, inefficient gasoline blow-torch, it will pay you to investigate the many handy Prest-O-Lite soldering, brazing and heating torches.

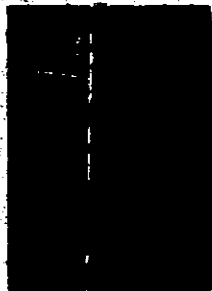

Truck delivery of batteries and gas tanks for dealers. Phone your orders to "273 Tri-State."

It quickly draws out poison from sores, fever sores, ulcers, boils, carbuncles, cuts, burns, scalds and bruises.

PLANS TO CONSERVE POWER PLANT FUEL ARE NOW COMPLETE

Maximum Production With Minimum Waste Is the Object

A BIG SAVING CAN BE MADE

It is believed that a recent conference at Washington, attended by the administrative engineers of the Fuel Administration for the inspection of the fuel conservation in power plants throughout the United States, Thomas R. Brown, formerly special engineer of the Westinghouse Air Brake company, has been appointed administrative engineer for the western half of Pennsylvania.

The slogan of the campaign is "Maximum production with minimum waste." The object is to operate at maximum efficiency, but to make every pound of fuel perform maximum service.

In laying the foundations for the organization it has been anticipated that this work should become a permanent service of the government.

This to twenty per cent, that is from twenty-five to fifty million tons of coal per year, can be saved by correct operation of steam power plants, using their present equipment, and without installation of new apparatus.

It is considered most important that all existing fuel conservation committees, committees of chambers of commerce, and national defense manufacturers' associations and other bodies be continued in full force, and that the cooperation of such organizations be obtained.

The administrative engineer in each state will work under the supervision of the present federal administrator.
No separate or new organization is contemplated, but, sufficient addition to the working force in each state will be made to insure efficient execution of the new function.

The national plan comprises certain fundamentals as follows:

1. Personal inspection of every power plant in the country.
2. Classification and rating of every power plant, based upon the thoroughness with which owner of said plant conforms to recommendations.

3. Responsibility of rating the plants will fall upon the administrative engineer in each state; the rating to be based upon reports of inspectors, who will not express opinions, but will collect definite information. The state fuel administrator in his judgment may entirely or partially shut off the supply of coal to any needlessly wasteful plant in his territory. Inspectors are to be furnished from each of the following sources:

(a) Inspectors of the steam boiler insurance companies.
(b) State factory inspectors.
(c) Engineering students from technical colleges.
(d) Volunteers and others.

The ratings will be based upon responses to questions, each of which will be given a value depending upon its relative importance, to the other questions. Depending upon the efficiency of methods in use in any plant, it may be rated in Class 1, 2, 3, 4, or 5.

The administrative engineer in each state will have supervision of electrical and mechanical problems connected with fuel conservation activities contemplated under this plan.
The ratings will be based upon existing equipment. The difficulty, delay and expense involved in the installation at this time of improved power equipment is fully recognized, but experience has proved that ten to twenty per cent of fuel now used in power plants can be saved by improvement in operation alone.

In advance of the first inspection a questionnaire is being sent to every power plant in each district, with notice to the owner that within, say sixty days, his plant will be inspected personally, and the questionnaire will be checked up by the inspector upon his visit. This action will give a reasonable time to say plant owner to improve the operation of his plant and conform to recommendations before his plant is actually rated. Thus, when the inspector calls for the purpose of obtaining and checking up the information form, the plant may receive a "much higher" rating than would have been the case if no time were allowed between the sending and collecting of the questionnaire.

It is recommended that a board of competent engineers be attached to the conservation committee in each state; also a corps of lecturers to arouse public interest and disseminate engineering information.

The Fuel Administration has prepared a fifty-minute film of moving pictures, showing good and bad operation in the steam boiler plant, methods of testing boilers, etc. These pictures will be available to each state in connection with its educational propaganda.

The administration is also preparing a series of official bulletins on engineering phases of steam and fuel economics. Some of these are now ready for printing.

In addition to this service, it has been proposed in Washington that competent engineers (one each state) and is available for use of each local administration. As the work develops still further, constructive assistance is contemplated for helping owners to bring their plants up to a high plane of economic operation.

Engine R. E. Connelley, who has been assigned to the western half of Pennsylvania, is now in the city.

Concerning Sleeping Garments

Many women prefer pajamas to nightgowns and others acknowledge their advantages over the nightdress.
There are lots of pajamas on the market, but for their benefit we have been furnished by those who make undergarments their special study, with a variety of sleeping garments of a new sort. These include separate trousers and coats or jackets and one-piece garments in which trousers are fastened onto a bodice. Besides these there are full-trousered pajamas worn under short kimono coats and for all of them crepe de chine has proved as practical in every way as muslin. It is easily laundered and as slim and dainty as batiste.

The figure at the left in the picture above, is clad in plain pajamas made of cotton. They are very like the garments worn by men and are developed in several cotton fabrics, percale and outing flannel among them, and in crepe de chine. Occasionally a print, flowered silk or moiré is used. The latter is made in this model—the latter recommended to withstand wear.
The garment at the right is also made of crepe de chine. It is now fashionable to have with narrow Vals and lapels and on the sides embrodered for decoration, is the favorite cotton fabric for these garments, but in the picture the choice seems to have fallen on striped dimity.
The full trousers have almost the effect of a narrow skirt and are drawn in about the ankles in fascinating lace-edged frills. A heading set in at the waistline carries a satin ribbon that gathers up the necessary width about the waist.

Trousers on pajamas of crepe de chine are often banded with silk in a contrasting color and made very full.
The simplest of slip-over upper garments is bordered with the same color as that used in the trousers. These new sleeping garments will please the woman who likes distinctive lingerie.

Painted Sport Hats.

Painted sport hats are affected by the younger girls at some of the seaside and country places. They are painted with all sorts of designs, but perhaps those showing daisies and poppies and the other unsophisticated flowers, that have come in for much approbation this summer on the part of fashion, are the simplest. Very effective, too, are those painted with green and blue designs—peacock feathers, for instance, wound around the crown (in paint, of course), or pine needles and cones. With some of these hats there are bags—inverted hats there are, with silk tops and draw-strings. And with some there are those little straw cones, one-half of which slip into the other, decorated like the hats.

TEST BRAKES ON ARMY CARS

Government Makes Thorough Examination of Trucks Before Being Sent to Fighting Line.

Uncle Sam is not overlooking the importance of efficiency from every angle in the motor transport and ambulance division of the army. These vehicles must stand a wear and tear probably never given to motor-driven vehicles since their birth as an established necessity in every day and international life.

One of the most important factors entering into the final analysis of a motor vehicle is the efficiency of the brakes. The motors, especially of the trucks, must travel hundreds of miles back and forth from the front and the most difficult surroundings. It has been stated on authority that for 300 miles up and down the fighting front there is an almost continual stream of trucks, ambulances, couriers and motorcycles running in such close proximity that unless the brakes are in perfect condition other hundreds of casualties would result almost daily.

Brakes form only a background for their more important sister, upon which the real burden rests—the brake lining itself. Thousands of miles of brake lining are being used daily by the government, and owing to this fact Uncle Sam has ordered tests to be made of the various makes. These tests are now going on in Washington.
Lining made under the thermoid process is being tested. This is said to be regarded as best adapted to military use in France on account of its moisture and dust-resisting qualities.

SAFETY DEVICE FOR AUTOS

Invention of Georgia Man Relates Patent Regularly to Machine Engineering.

The Scientific American in illustrating and describing a safety crank catch for automobiles invented by M.
S. Hunter of Rome, Ga., says: The invention relates particularly to attachments for automobiles employing cranks at the forward end of the Front Elevation of Device. power shaft. The object is to provide a catch which will engage the crank in case of back fire and to obviate injury. A further object is to provide a catch which may be readily positioned at both sides of the starting crank and mounted in connection with the motor frame. The catch has a lateral sliding movement to permit the passage of the starting crank. The movement is such that the catch is immediately brought back to operative position by a controlling spring.

"CLUTTER" WOULD BE MISSED

After All, This Must Remain Always a Matter of Individual Opinion.

Men are just as much disposed toward the cluttering habit as women, but not one in 10,000 will admit it.
The average man is forever bringing things home. By this we mean things that nobody else in the house has the slightest interest in. They may take the form of books, of pamphlets, of pictures, of bric-a-brac of various kinds, of fishing apparatus, of golf sticks, of group photographs or of friendly souvenirs from business associates, and he insists that they shall all be kept in view. Usually they crowd other clutter which the average woman has spent a great part of her life in collecting, and which is found on all the mantel pieces, on all the stands, on all the tables and on all the walls of all the rooms of the house. Then as the children grow up they bring things home that are dear to each one of them respectively, and these, too, must be kept in view.

But when all this is said, an important point has still been omitted.
Clutter may, often does, cease to be difficult in the eyes and thoughts of the family. There are instances in which it has come to be regarded as family treasure. With all the complaint that is raised against it, it is often grievously missed when parted with. So truly is this the case, so closely interwoven does family life become with all of its surroundings and associations, that it is difficult to conclude here, without asking a question that will doubtless arise in the minds of thousands of readers, namely, What, after all, would home be without its clutter?—Christian Science

PLAN TO IMPROVE A JACK

Writer Explains How Wheel Was Raised by Use of Rocks and New Tire Mounted.

The writer recently had the misfortune to have the lifting jack removed from his car during the night and unaware of it drove into the country the following day only to have a blow-out occur on the open road. The wheel was raised first by driving it upon a flat rock suitably placed. With the wheel in this position it was a question merely of looking around the roadside for another rock or log which could be placed under the raised axle.
When found, the flat rock was forced out by means of a sledge and the wheel thus remained off the ground ready for the mounting of the new tire. Another method which could be used consists in having one man use a fence rail to pry up the front end.
This could be done after the logs have been removed so that no time will be lost in slipping on the new tire and rim.
